

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

CLASS OF 1837.

At an informal meeting of twelve members of the Class of 1837, held at the Commencement dinner in 1846, it was moved that a general meeting of the class be called at the Commencement in 1847. It was not designed that this meeting should interfere with the adjournment previously made, but it was thought desirable, in accordance with the custom of other classes, to hold a general meeting at the close of each decade from the time of graduation. It was known, moreover, that many members of the class, then absent, desired a meeting earlier than 1850, while it was presumed it would give dissatisfaction to none. It was therefore

Voted, unanimously, That the Secretary be requested to issue circulars calling a general meeting of the class at the Commencement in 1847.

This was done in June, and each member of the class was notified as far as their residences could be ascertained. On Friday, the 13th of August, a preliminary meeting of such members of the class as were then in New Haven, was held at Mr. Goodrich's, when it was agreed to hold the general meeting of the class during the hours of the Commencement exercises, on Thursday, the 19th. The Secretary advertised the meeting accordingly, to be held on Thursday, at 9 A. M. On the 18th, the class assembled with other Alumni, in the new Library Hall, when after singing an ode prepared for the occasion, they walked in procession, in classical order, to the North Church, where they listened to the orator of the day, (Rev. Dr. Adams, of N. Y.) and participated in the other interesting proceedings of that festive gathering. In the evening of the same day, thirty or more of our members met at the house of the Secretary, to participate in a social entertainment.

Thirty-four members of the class joined in the general procession of Alumni on the morning of Thursday, the 19th, and proceeded to the Centre Church, whence at 9 o'clock, they went by previous appointment to the Theological Chamber, to enter upon the business of the general meeting.

FREDERICK A. COE, Esq., of New York City, was appointed CHAIRMAN, and Rev. DAVID B. COE, of New York City, SECRETARY, pro tem.

Thirty-four members were present, viz :

The names of all the members were then read by the permanent Secretary, when the members present related the principal incidents in their lives, during the past ten years, and communicated such information as they possessed respecting our absent classmates, living and deceased.

The highest harmony and good feeling prevailed, and that the sessions were interesting is well attested by the fact that the morning meeting was protracted until one o'clock, and was then adjourned to three, P. M., at which time nearly all who had been present in the morning re-assembled and protracted the session until 6 o'clock. The class dined on Commencement day with other Alumni, under the spacious tent in the College yard, where they filled a conspicuous place among the 800 who were there gathered in a happy re-union, under the broad shadows of the old elms.

After the close of the morning's proceedings, it was—

On motion of Rev. W. T. BACON, of New Haven,

Resolved, That the thanks of the class be tendered to the Secretary, for his kindness and assiduity in collecting and preserving the statistics of our classmates.

Resolved, That the Secretaries be a committee to procure the publication of the minutes of this meeting, and of the statistics of the class, and that a tax of one dollar be assessed upon each member present, to defray the expenses of the publication.

On motion of S. PLIMPTON, Esq., of Boston,

Resolved, That it be recommended to the class to hold a general meeting at the completion of each decade, from the year of our graduation.

The meeting was then adjourned to the day of the Annual Commencement in Yale College, in 1850.

Attest, B. SILLIMAN, JR., Permanent Secretary.

D. B. COE, Secretary pro tem.

[NOTE. In the following summary, the names of the members are given with the residences as they were in our annual Catalogues, or at the time of graduation; subsequent changes thus appear in proper chronological order.]

*REV. JOAB BRACE, was born in Newington, Conn., June 6, 1814. From infancy he suffered from an enlargement of the spleen, which was the cause of constant pain, and frequent severe sickness through life. At two years of age he was smitten with a kind of paralysis, which added lameness to feebleness. At the age of 14 he professed religion, and became a member of his father's church.

After his graduation, he resided in the family of his brother-in-law, Rev. Dr. Todd, first in Philadelphia, and afterwards in Pittsfield, Mass. He occupied himself in teaching a small select school, and in various editorial labors. He wrote a small treatise on English Grammar, and a history of Madagascar, for Sabbath Schools. He also pursued a course of Theological study. His labors were often interrupted by sickness, and he declared a short time before his death, that “he had never known an hour of freedom from pain since he could remember.” In the autumn of 1844, he was licensed to preach, by the Berkshire Association, and soon after was settled over the Congregational Church in Lanesborough, Mass. In the following May he was married to Miss Elizabeth J. Watson, of Pittsfield. In July he was seized with a severe illness, which so far abated, in a few days, that he rode to Pittsfield, intending to return the next day. But he soon became worse, and after eight weeks of extreme suffering, but of patient Christian resignation, he died at Pittsfield, Monday, Sept. 22, 1845, aged 31 years. (A fuller account of his life and death, by Dr. Todd, also one of his sermons, are contained in the American Pulpit, for Jan. 1846.)

*CHARLES BUCK, was born in Hartford, Conn., Dec. 26, 1817. After his graduation he qualified himself for the profession of civil engineering, in which he was employed in the States of Maine, Michigan, Ohio, and Conn. He afterwards engaged in mercantile pursuits in New York City. In 1844, he returned to Hartford, where he was employed as Agent of the N. H. and H. Railroad Company. In Feb., 1845, he took a severe cold, which ended in pulmonary consumption, of which he died, Aug. 28, 1845. The following account of his religious views and feelings in his last days, is furnished by Rev. T. H. Gallaudet, and will, it is presumed, be interesting to all his classmates :

I constantly perceived the progressive opening of his mind to the simple truths of the Gospel, and his increasing and serious attention to them. He had, during the whole time, remarkable clearness, calmness, and firmness of mind, and self-possession, noticing, with singular precision, the progress of his disease, especially towards its fatal issue, and the indications of his departure from the body. Patience under very severe suffering, kindness and courtesy to those around him, and a grateful acknowledgment of what was done for his relief, strongly marked the whole course of his sickness. I never heard from him one murmuring, or repining expression, with regard to the dealings of God's providence with him. What he said to me concerning his religious views and feelings, was said with a modest diffidence, and a certain degree of reserve. Yet he always seemed ready to have religious conversation, reading, and prayer, and appeared to derive satisfaction and comfort from them. He expressed, decidedly, his full assent to the simple doctrines of the Gospel ; acknowledged himself a great sinner ; avowed his reliance on the atonement of Christ alone, for the pardon of his sins and acceptance with God ; showed no alarm at the great change which awaited him, and at last, died quietly and in peace. His friends feel that they are permitted to indulge the hope that he has gone to be with that Saviour whose grace can be made sufficient in every extremity, for all who trust in him.

In 1839 he returned to New Haven, where he spent a year in the study of the German language. In 1840 he was appointed Tutor in Yale College, which office he resigned in consequence of ill health, in the fall of 1842. During his residence in New Haven he pursued a course of Theological study. He spent the winter of 1842-3 in Franklin, La., in the family of Judge Baker. He returned to New England in the summer of 1843, in feeble health, and was compelled to resort to a southern climate during the following winter. Here his health was so far restored that he commenced the study of Law in Franklin, La., intending to practice the profession in that State. In the Spring of 1844 he was seized with hemorrhage of the lungs, in consequence of which he abandoned his studies, and returned to his native place to spend his last days among his friends. He sank gradually under his disease, and died March 17, 1845. He occupied much of his time, during the last few months of his life in preparing for the press a work on English Grammar, which was published soon after his death.

Four children—one deceased—two daughters and one son living.

The following statistics, made up from the foregoing summary, may not be uninteresting: It appears that of the 97 who graduated, 87 still live; 57 are married, and 40 unmarried. The class have, as far as the reports show, 87 children, of whom 31 are sons, 39 daughters, and not designated, 17; of these, 12 have deceased, and 75 are now living. In respect of professions, we are divided as follows, including the deceased members: Clergymen 33, Lawyers 27, Physicians 9, Teachers and Professors 10, Merchants 5, Farmers 4, Engineers and Surveyors 3, Editors and Authors 5, Practical Arts 1, Dentist 1, Consul 1, Unknown 1.

A large number of the class have spent a portion of time in teaching, before entering their professions. It appears that the Class has taught 121 years, preached 151, practiced law 131, and medicine 40. This accounts for only 443 years, of the 970 for which we are accountable. The remainder, to a good degree, will be filled by the years of preparation, which are not enumerated, and about 175 more which have been spent in the pursuits of agriculture, commerce, authorship, engineering, &c. But it is feared that not less than 50 years are justly chargeable to idleness.

It appears from our annual catalogues that the class had 155 members during our passage through College, whose names found a place in the printed lists, and it is known that there were others who were with us for a few months only, but whose names were never published. We lost 27 members in Freshman year, 25 in Sophomore, 15 in Junior, and 1 in Senior. Of these, the following have subsequently received degrees, viz:—R. U. Hyatt, in 1839, E. P. Rogers, in 1844, A. E. Ives and C. B. Smith in 1847; and it is not unlikely that others may yet be granted, in which case our list will exceed 101. The Master's degree has been taken by 53, and 3 of our members have been tutors in the institution.

The Secretaries have been unable to glean much information concerning the members who left before graduation, but they give the lists which follow, (in the hope that before the meeting in 1850, much may be learned by personal inquiry among members, and by letter,) containing names, many of which are familiar, and others appear like the shadows of old associations, faintly but still distinctly seen.

CLASS OF EIGHTEEN HUNDRED AND THIRTY-SEVEN.

ON the 18th of August, 1840, forty-seven of the ninety-seven members the Class which graduated at Yale in 1837, assembled at a Supper in the Pavilion Hotel in New Haven. On this occasion, it was resolved that ten years later a similar meeting should be held. In conformity with this resolution, the Secretary of the Class in June last, issued the following circular letter to all members of the Class whose addresses were known, including those who did not, as well as those who did receive degrees in regular course :

NEW HAVEN, JUNE 6, 1850.

Dear Friend and Classmate,

THE meeting of our Class in 1840 was adjourned to reassemble in August, 1850. Pursuant to this adjournment, a meeting will be held at the house of the Secretary on the evening of Wednesday, the 14th of August next, preceding the Commencement. The present year is one of peculiar interest in the history of the College—being the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary from its foundation—and it is understood that the occasion will be celebrated by appropriate observances. Numerous reunions of other classes will also be held on the completion of this decade of graduation. These reasons operating with the more powerful one to us, that it is the appointed time of our own Class reunion, will, it is hoped, secure a very general attendance of members from even the most remote sections. A meeting of our Class was held on the 19th of August, 1847, called by the resolution of a number of our members assembled at the Commencement in 1846. A published report of our statistics, as collected and adopted on that occasion, has been distributed to all members of the Class as far as the Secretary has been able to find their address. It was perfectly understood at the 1847 meeting, that it was to be regarded as no impediment to, nor substitute for, the meeting in 1850, and all then present pledged themselves to be here on the approaching anniversary.

Should you be unavoidably detained from joining your other Classmates on this interesting occasion, it is still desired that you should address a letter to the Secretary, stating such facts in your personal history as may be interesting to your old associates.

As ever, yours,

B. SILLIMAN, Jr.,
Secretary of the Class of 1837.

On the day named in this circular, there assembled by invitation of the Reverend and Honorable the President and Fellows of Yale College the largest gathering of her Alumni ever convened, to celebrate with appropriate solemnities and festivity the consummation of the third half century of her history. Among the sons of Yale, to the number of one thousand, who sat down that day at dinner beneath spacious tents, the Class of 1837 occupied a conspicuous place. The spirit of the past fresh and ardent as of yore, carried them back over the checkered interval of thirteen years, and all felt anew the same sympathies and emotions with which of old we were wont to feel and to act as one man. To chronicle, however, the happy hours of heartfelt communion which were enjoyed that day by the sons of Yale, is the duty of another. At an early hour on the evening of the 14th, the members of our Class assembled to take a social cup of tea with the Secretary, when it was agreed to occupy the hours of the next morning during the Commencement exercises with a session at which the personal history of our members not present should be rehearsed by those who had facts to communicate. Arrangements were also made to have a supper for the evening of Wednesday, at which those present should rehearse their own experience.

On the morning of Wednesday (August 15th) at 9 o'clock, we assembled in the old Rhetorical Chamber, when on motion of the Secretary, WILLIAM M. EVARTS, Esq., of New York City, was called to the Chair, and Rev. DAVID B. COE, of New York City, Secretary, pro tem.

On motion, the Roll was then called, when the following members responded to their names:

Since the meeting, the Secretary has also received a long and interesting letter from one of our members who has not been heard from before since our graduation, viz. :

Dr. WILLIAM DAVID GILLISON, Gillisonville, S. C.

Several hours were occupied on the morning of Wednesday in receiving accounts of absent members from those present. The principal facts elicited in this manner will be found embodied in the following statistical catalogue in the most succinct form.

The Secretary at the close of the morning session announced that arrangements had been made for a Supper at the Tontine Hotel in the evening at 9 o'clock, and the Class adjourned accordingly. Forty members sat down to the Supper—a few being unfortunately detained from attending. An opening prayer was offered to the throne of grace by Rev. Mr. MORRIS, of North Stonington.

It is impossible to convey by words to those who were not present on this occasion, an adequate idea of the deep and pervading interest which held the members fixed with the most earnest and delighted attention until the morning of Friday dawned fully upon them. An occasion of deep interest all were prepared to enjoy—but none probably had reason to expect so strong and universal a demonstration of the loftiest, most earnest and soul-inspiring sentiment, as pervaded and imbued this memorable night.

Several circumstances contributed to render this occasion one of peculiar interest. Men met who had not looked each other in the eye since the early days of Freshman year—changed, but still the same. Strange vicissitudes, both of joy and grief had left their impress—but with all the diversity of original character, and all the contrasts of later circumstances, there was evident through all and above all, a deep unity of sentiment and action which can have its root only in the genial soil of our inner life.

There was present one who had been lost to us and to the world for fourteen years. Colton was there, and had he risen from the grave his appearance would not have surprised us more—for had he been, as most believed he was indeed, deceased—he could not have been more completely lost to his old friends than during his long transformation under an assumed name. His feeling recital to old and familiar friends of the history of his life will not soon be forgotten, characterized as it was by his natural frankness and honesty of heart, narrating the darker as well as the more cheering chapters of his fortunes. Convinced of the error of his position and galled by the insincerity of a double similitude, he had returned to his family and friends, resumed his proper name, and with it the sympathies and affections of his former associates. The College has extended to him her genial recognition, and we are happy now for the first time to enroll his name on the masters lists.*

We might wish that the true picture of such a scene of rational and rare enjoyments could be by some moral ray daguerreotyped for the satisfaction of those who could not participate in it. But there are occasions in life when only those who form part of the scene can fully appreciate its value—and such was our Class meeting in eighteen hundred and fifty.

In making up the following statistics it has been thought best to retain all the matter which has formed part of the former publications, and all has been added that could be gleaned from authentic sources. Errors must always exist in such lists, and it becomes those who detect them to take means to have them corrected. A collation of the facts contained in this list will be found appended at the close.

After a most moving address from Mr. EVARTS, the Chairman, in which the fact was touched upon that one of us must live to find himself the sole representative of our number, the meeting was adjourned at 5 A. M., to the annual Commencement in eighteen hundred and fifty-seven—twenty years from our graduation. A closing prayer of deep solemnity and appropriateness was offered by Rev. Mr. STONE, of Boston.

* Mr. Colton received the degree of M. A. at too late a day to have it enrolled on the Triennial Catalogue of this year.

*REV. JOAB BRACE, was born in Newington, Conn., June 6, 1814. From infancy he suffered from an enlargement of the spleen, which was the cause of constant pain, and frequent severe sickness through life. At two years of age he was smitten with a kind of paralysis, which added lameness to feebleness. At the age of 14 he professed religion, and became a member of his father's church.

After his graduation, he resided in the family of his brother-in-law, Rev. Dr. Todd, first in Philadelphia, and afterwards in Pittsfield, Mass. He occupied himself in teaching a small select school, and in various editorial labors. He wrote a small treatise on English Grammar, and a history of Madagascar, for Sabbath Schools. He also pursued a course of Theological study. His labors were often interrupted by sickness, and he declared a short time before his death, that "he had never known an hour of freedom from pain since he could remember." In the autumn of 1844, he was licensed to preach, by the Berkshire Association, and soon after was settled over the Congregational Church in Lanesborough, Mass. In the following May he was married to Miss Elizabeth J. Watson, of Pittsfield. In July he was seized with a severe illness, which so far abated, in a few days, that he rode to Pittsfield, intending to return the next day. But he soon became worse, and after eight weeks of extreme suffering, but of patient Christian resignation, he died at Pittsfield, Monday, Sept. 22, 1845, aged 31 years. (A fuller account of his life and death, by Dr. Todd, also one of his sermons, are contained in the American Pulpit, for Jan., 1846.)

*CHARLES BUCK, was born in Hartford, Conn., Dec. 26, 1817. After his graduation he qualified himself for the profession of civil engineering, in which he was employed in the States of Maine, Michigan, Ohio, and Connecticut. He afterwards engaged in mercantile pursuits in New York City. In 1844, he returned to Hartford, where he was employed as Agent of the New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company. In Feb., 1845, he took a severe cold, which ended in pulmonary consumption, of which he died, Aug. 28, 1845. The following account of his religious views and feelings in his last days, is furnished by Rev. T. H. Gallaudet, and will, it is presumed, be interesting to all his classmates :

"I constantly perceived the progressive opening of his mind to the simple truths of the Gospel, and his increasing and serious attention to them. He had, during the whole time, remarkable clearness, calmness, and firmness of mind, and self-possession, noticing, with singular precision, the progress of his disease, especially towards its fatal issue, and the indications of his departure from the body. Patience under very severe suffering, kindness and courtesy to those around him, and a grateful acknowledgment of what was done for his relief, strongly marked the whole course of his sickness. I never heard from him one murmuring, or repining expression, with regard to the dealings of God's providence with him. What he said to me concerning his religious views and feelings, was said with a modest diffidence, and a certain degree of reserve. Yet he always seemed ready to have religious conversation, reading, and prayer, and appeared to derive satisfaction and comfort from them. He expressed, decidedly, his full assent to the simple doctrines of the Gospel ; acknowledged himself a great sinner ; avowed his reliance on the atonement of Christ alone, for the pardon of his sins and acceptance with God ; showed no alarm at the great change which awaited him, and at last, died quietly and in peace. His friends feel that they are permitted to indulge the hope that he has gone to be with that Savior whose grace can be made sufficient in every extremity, for all who trust in him."

*DANIEL POWERS, A.M., was born in Warren, (then Western,) Mass., May 21, 1815. In the fall of 1837, he went to Mobile, and was engaged as Professor in Mobile College for about two years. In 1839 he returned to New Haven, where he spent a year in the study of the German language. In 1840 he was appointed Tutor in Yale College, which office he resigned in consequence of ill-health, in the fall of 1842. During his residence in New Haven he pursued a course of Theological study. He spent the winter of 1842-3 in Franklin, La., in the family of Judge Baker. He returned to New England in the summer of 1843, in feeble health, and was compelled to resort to a southern climate during the following winter. Here his health was so far restored that he commenced the study of Law in Franklin, La., intending to practice the profession in that State. In the Spring of 1844 he was seized with hemorrhage of the lungs, in consequence of which he abandoned his studies, and returned to his native place to spend his last days among his friends. He sank gradually under his disease, and died, March 17, 1845. He occupied much of his time, during the last few months of his life in preparing for the press a work on English Grammar, which was published soon after his death.
